Hi, I'm Nikki Delamarter,

In the year since I joined Sage Cottage (August 2010) as a substitute teacher, I have enjoyed working with and teaching the children. It is fun seeing them grow both mentally and physically. I have also been working towards a diploma in Early Childhood Education. I feel it is important to continually improve my skills and advance my learning. I have been working in this field for the last four years, with many years of volunteering at my kid's schools and church nursery prior to moving to Los Alamos.

I came to America from Seoul, South Korea in 1990, settled down and started a family. I completed high school in Korea and have attended college here in the US. I have two wonderful children ages 17 and 14, and my husband is employed locally as well. I enjoy cooking, skiing, hiking, traveling, working out, and children.
